Canada is hosting the 5th International Summit on the Teaching Profession (ISTP) in Banff, Alberta, March 29–30, 2015. ISTP brings together education leaders from some of the top-performing countries in education in the world, according to OECD's Programme for International Student Assessment (PISA), to exchange best practices and discuss policies in education.

Since its inception in 2011, ISTP has emerged as a flagship forum for international dialogue on education reform.

What is the impact of ISTP?

- ISTP brings education ministers and leaders of the teaching profession together at the same table to develop a shared agenda for education reform.
- ISTP focuses on what works in the world's best education systems and the practical steps that lead to improvement.
- ISTP examines data collected by OECD through various education studies, including PISA and the Teaching and Learning International Survey (TALIS), to formulate policy options for reform.
- ISTP connects decision makers in high-performing and rapidly improving systems.
